Villa's artistic extravagance is extended to the living room atrium with its high-ceilinged, wooden gabled roof, with intricate wooden panels to connect with the outdoors. In the evenings, starlight cluster chandeliers lights up the space like an art installation sculpture in the Hollywood Hills; statement architecture at its best.

With an expanse of lawns, Energy Vibration's natural setting frames not just one glorious infinity pool, but two, with a second pool on the villa's upper level. Two of the bedrooms have super-king beds, while the others are king-sized, all with picturesque views of the sea, pool or gardens. One of the bedrooms, along a stepping stone path, is housed in its own contemporary, white-cube bungalow.

Around the pools, loungers, daybeds, and a covered terrace with funky wooden nest beds invites, with seats on a pontoon over the pool, not to mention two Jacuzzis as well.

Along with a well-equipped gym letting in lots of natural light, the games room includes a pool table with a golf simulation game, complete with a green teeing off area to add to the virtual experience. Outdoors, the villa grounds include a putting green, another plus for golfers, a basketball/badminton court, as well as kayaks and paddleboards.
